New AAUN Group Here To Hear Neal Potter

Organized by Greenbelters, a special county unit of the Capital Area Division of the American Association for the United Nations has been formed and will hold its first public meeting on Tuesday, October 23, at the Youth Center at 8:15 p.m. in honor of United Nations Week.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Neal Potter, who has been active in the AAUN for the past 15 years and for the past two years was Maryland area chairman for the Capital Area Division. His talk entitled, "How to Achieve a Stronger UN," will be followed by a discussion. Potter, who is an economist with Resources for the Future, a non-profit research group supported by the Ford Foundation, is also active with the United World Federalists and a member of the National Board of World Federalists.

Although members for the new local unit will be primarily recruited from residents of Greenbelt for the present, the objective of the organization is to represent all of northern Prince Georges County and become an independently functioning organization. Temporary chairman George Beauchamp notes, "This is the first time any group in the Washington suburban area has attempted to form its own AAUN unit, but I think the interest in the UN in Greenbelt and surrounding communities warrants it."

Members who join the AAUN through the Greenbelt group will be eligible to participate both in the regular Capital Area Division activities as well as local events. The Greenbelt unit will take over the responsibility of UNICEF Halloween collections as well as sponsorship of programs in the area secondary and elementary schools connected with the UN. Tentatively scheduled is a mock UN Assembly program organized and conducted by high school students.

The objective of the AAUN is to distribute as widely as possible information about the work of the United Nations and encourage its support. It is the only national organization devoting its entire program on a year-round basis to this effort. National headquarters is in New York City directly across the street from the UN building. Those interested in joining the local group are asked to contact Jim Cassels at GR 4-4046 or at his business office in Twin Pines Savings & Loan Association on Centerway.

UNICEF Collection Oct. 30

The annual Greenbelt UNICEF collection will take place on Tuesday, October 30, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Youth groups from the churches, boy scouts, girl scouts, 4-H members, and the Teen Club will gather at the Youth Center at 7 p.m. to receive containers, area assignments, and official tags. Adult leaders must accompany youth groups and receive containers and area assignments and tags for the youth in each group. The people of Greenbelt are asked to make donations only to those who have official containers and tags.

The Twin Pines Savings and Loan Association will serve refreshments for the collectors.

Scouts To Collect

Davis Memorial Goodwill Industries this week distributed 80,000 empty clothing bags to the Boy Scouts of the National Capital Area.

Each year the Scouts aid Goodwill in collecting clothes which the handicapped workers at Goodwill repair, clean and sell. Goodwill Director Richard A. Nelson said, the annual "Good Turn Day" will be Saturday, November 17.

Police News Review

A resident of Woodland Way called the police office last Monday and said that he suspected a prowler had been in the area the previous night. A transistor radio had been heard playing and, in the morning, empty beer bottles were found strewn around.

On Tuesday the case of the battling ice-cream vendors was again reported to police. The vendors were having trouble with one another's routes. Police advice was to try to work out schedules among themselves to avoid being in the same courts at the same times. No further police action was taken.

An out-of-town resident complained that he had parked his car at the Center last Wednesday and when he re-entered his car, a stuffed cat, valued at $25, was missing. It was later found in the trunk of another car. This transfer was listed as a possible prank.

A stolen car report was also received Wednesday. The auto, a '54 Ford, was stolen from the front of a residence on Crescent. Police recovered the car on Friday. It was found at the gravel pit near Schrom's airport, stripped of all five tires and wheels, battery, rear lights and tools.

Two teen-age youths were picked up by police at the Greenbelt Lake for having alcoholic beverages in their possession. The boy, age 16, and the girl, age 15, were non-Greenbelters. Their parents were notified to come for the teenagers, who were released to their custody.

The rabbit being held at the Warehouse for observation after it bit or scratched an officer died last Wednesday. Its corpse was delivered to the P. G. Health Department, where examination turned up no evidence of rabies.

Police and Fire Departments were notified when there was a smell of smoke last Friday at the Youth Center at just about the time Center School let out. Various stories as to what happened were brought home to parents, but the facts are that the trouble was located in one of the fans in the large skating room. There was no fire, and no water was used. Not knowing the details other than that it was a fire call from the Youth Center, fire companies arrived on the scene from as far away as College Park.

Publishing Assn. Meeting

The annual meeting of the membership of the Greenbelt Cooperative Publishing Association, sponsor of the News Review, will be held this Sunday, October 21, at 8:30 p.m. in the newly refurbished office of the News Review at the of 15 Parkway.

All staff members are urged to attend. The key event of the meeting will be the election of a new board of directors. Al Skolnik, president of the board, has also asked all members to come pretied up, as photographs will be taken for the 25th Anniversary Issue of the News Review. The first News Review (then known as the Cooperator) appeared on November 24, 1937.

Program About UN

UP FOR DECISION, the public affairs series of half-hour television programs produced by seven Leagues of Women Voters of the Greater Washington area, and made possible through a grant from the William C. Whitney Foundation, continues Monday night, October 22, at 9:30 p.m. on Channel 26 (WETA-TV). This second program, titled "The Changing U.N. Scene," will bring to viewers as speaker Mr. Harlan Cleveland, administrator, editor, and educator.

Town's First Families Will Attend Luncheon

A buffet luncheon for the First Families of Greenbelt will be held at the American Legion Post this Saturday at 2 p.m. as part of the city's 25th Anniversary celebration, it was announced by Harry Zubkoff, Chairman of the Silver Anniversary Committee. Sponsored by the city's Silver Anniversary Committee, the American Legion, the Greenbelt Federal Credit Union, and the Lions Club, the luncheon will be free to all residents of Greenbelt who moved here in 1937 or 1938, as well as to a few FFG's who now reside in neighboring communities.

"The luncheon," said Zubkoff, "is our way of expressing our admiration and gratitude to those pioneer families who settled here in the beginning and played so important a role in shaping the character of our community today." Accordingly, the sponsoring organizations are providing an opportunity for them to get together for an afternoon of reminiscing—to talk over old times in a pleasant and congenial atmosphere and to meet old friends and neighbors. The catering and food preparation are already underway at the Legion, and the Credit Union has mailed invitations to all the FFG's whose names are known.

"We may not have all the names of the First Families," said Zubkoff, "so we are asking those who get the invitations to pass the word to any other First Families they know. If we missed anyone, it was because our information was incomplete, but everyone who came here in 1937 or 1938 is welcome to attend. The only requirement is to call the Credit Union on GR 4-5858 to identify yourself and confirm your reservation."

Queen Jane and Her Court

The Labor Day Festival Queen and her court will attend the Silver Anniversary Ball. Pretty Jane Brooks and her attendants will open the ball at 9 p.m. with a Queen's Dance and will lead a Grand March at 11 p.m.

Queen Jane's Court consists of Nancy Hoffman, Donna Evans, Eva Walton, Claudette Walton, Peggy Hyland, Jan Meade, Bonnie Pate, Toni Dutton, Mary Barcus, Connie Burt, Beverly Meir, and Frances Caldwell.

The Silver Anniversary Ball will be sponsored jointly by the Greenbelt Armory and the Silver Anniversary Committee.

No Horse In Space Age

Attendance totaled 4,503 last Sunday when the Goddard Space Flight Center held Open House for Greenbelters. Not all the visitors came from Greenbelt, however, although many faces in the crowd looked familiar. The NASA launching site at Wallops Island, Virginia, was open to the public on the same date; and as the result of a mix-up, several unauthorized announcements of the Open House at Goddard were broadcast as well.

The unexpected publicity did not faze the Goddard staff at all. Preparations had been made to accommodate as many as 10,000 visitors over the weekend. The actual combined total, which included more than 3,000 members of the families of Goddard employees who visited the Space Center on Saturday, came to approximately 8,000 persons.

The crowd included a group of youngsters dressed in their Sunday best, who arrived at the entrance on foot—although Goddard is miles from anywhere. They were admitted to the Center. Less fortunate however, was a young lady who cantered dashing up to the gate on horseback, only to be turned away with apologies. The reason? No parking facilities for horses had been provided.

GHI Board Debates Function Of Nominations Committee

by Al Skolnik

A spirited discussion on the functions of the nominations and elections committee featured the Thursday, October 11, meeting of the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. board of directors. At issue was a proposed by-law change drafted by director Joe Cherry which would deprive the nominations and elections committee of the power to solicit candidates for the board of directors and the audit committee. All candidates would be nominated through a petition signed by ten members. At present, the committee may nominate candidates without requiring the signatures of ten names, leaving the petition route open to those who are not nominated by the committee.

The board voted 5-4 against the proposed by-law change but did agree to refer the matter to the by-laws committee, which is now at work cataloguing all changes needed in the by-laws for the next membership meeting. The board members voting against the change were president Harry Zubkoff, vice-president Frank Lastner, secretary Ed Burgoon, treasurer Henry Brautigam, and Ed Peters. Those in favor were Joe Comproni, Bill Helm, Joe Cherry, and Allen Morrison.

The split in the vote reflected the ill feelings created at the May election, when the nominations and elections committee failed to nominate one of the members of the minority group, who subsequently had to get his name on the ballot through a petition signed by ten members. (A candidate for the audit committee also had to use the petition route after failing to be nominated by the committee.)

Motion Defended

In defense of his motion, Cherry stated that he did not feel the nominations and elections committee should be clothed with authority to screen or pass upon the qualifications of the candidates. This, he said, is a membership responsibility to be exercised at the ballot box. Comproni stated that he saw no need for a committee to go out and solicit candidates, as there have always been more than enough candidates for the board.

Burgoon pointed out that this has only been true in one or two years and that, in most years, the nominations committee had to work very hard to persuade members to run for office. It was also pointed out that practically every co-op, including the Greenbelt Federal Credit Union, has a nominations committee.

Bev Fonda and Mat Amberg, members of the nominations and elections committee, defended the committee's action in last year's election. They stated that the by-laws placed upon them the res-

Junior Highlights

The big news at Greenbelt Junior High School is still the upcoming political rally.

At this writing, the rally, which is scheduled for October 29 at 1 p.m., has received front-page coverage in the News Review and two metropolitan newspapers and has been mentioned on many television and radio newscasts. This is due to the fact that for the first time during their campaigns, Governor J. Millard Tawes and Republican gubernatorial candidate Frank Small are scheduled to speak on the same platform. Although they are definitely not going to debate and, in fact, are slated to speak an hour apart, many voters from both parties seem to be eagerly awaiting the rally.

The issue (that both candidates will appear on the same platform), a source of much controversy both within the school and outside of it, was further plunged into uncertainty when Small made a speech mocking the fact that Governor Tawes cancelled his appearance before the Bethesda - Chevy Chase Chamber of Commerce. The whole school waits with much apprehension any further developments.

Also in the news is the eighth-grade trip to Jamestown and Williamsburg, Virginia, scheduled for November 3 - 4. At least three busloads of students will take part in the annual trip, which ties in with their studies of American History.

possibility of recommending to the membership nominees for office who would be an asset to the corporation. Their failure to nominate any individual, Fonda and Amberg alleged, did not deprive that person of his right to run, since he could get on the ballot through a petition.

At this point there was some confusion whether the committee's failure to nominate a candidate would or would not be publicized before the elections. In the last election, the candidates who were not nominated publicized the event themselves through the News Review. Without this publicity, it is not known whether the membership would have deduced from a comparison of the committee's report and the ballot that some names had been turned down by the committee.

A compromise suggested from the floor was that the nominations and elections committee continue to have the power to solicit nominations, but that all candidates, whether nominated by the committee or not, be required to file a petition with ten names. But the battle lines had already hardened, and the vote was taken on the original resolution.

Center Sales Office

Mrs. Mary Jane Kinzer, GHI Supervisor of Sales, appeared before the board to discuss the effects of the Center office on sales. She stated that the office has been open only a total of 48 hours on weekends and that it was too early to judge the effect. She added, however, that the office was good for public relations. Local people came in all day long to exchange views, register protests, argue positions, etc.

Her main problem, she said, is to get licensed salesmen to staff the office. She was asked whether putting the sales force on a commission basis would help in the recruitment of additional salesmen. She explained that up to now the philosophy of the co-op has been to provide a service to the members, available upon their request.

No listings are solicited, for example, because this is considered inconsistent with GHI policy, which is aimed at making Greenbelt attractive to members. Whether switching to a commission system would jeopardize this policy, she did not know.

One problem concerning commission is that the efforts of many staff people are involved in one sale. Some method would have to be devised of spreading the commission among many people.

Since GHI has now worked out with Twin Pines an arrangement for a month-to-month lease on the Center office, the board felt that any final decision could await further experience.

New Comptroller

The board was introduced to the new GHI comptroller, Donald W. McGinn, who is succeeding Roy Breashears. McGinn, a certified public accountant, has had his own accounting practice for nine years. He is a graduate of Wharton School of Finance, University of Pennsylvania. A native of the area, he graduated from Bladensburg High School and still lives there.

Fence

Breashears reported that the sheriff has been unable to serve a subpoena on a resident of 26 Court Ridge who refuses to follow a GHI directive to take down a fence across a public walk. The GHI manager said that the judge can issue an injunction without a subpoena, if the sheriff is unable to contact the resident after two tries.

New Drama Wing Play

"Tomorrow is a Day", a 40-minute play by Nora Sterling, is the University of Maryland's Drama Wing production for the 1962-63 season. The Drama Wing is a dramatic service organization for any civic group interested in the behavior problems of children from the ages of 4 to 18. It utilizes problem plays of the American Theatre Wing which are both instructive and entertaining for parents, and educators. Since its origin in 1957 the group has given 256 performances before more than 24,000 people.

"Tomorrow is a Day" deals with the insecurity of a 15-year-old girl, unable to cope with new social situations. Through the medium of flashbacks, the audience sees episodes contributing to this difficulty at varying ages in a student's school life.

Performance dates include: October 17, at Gray Manor in Dundalk (Md.); October 30, at the Pinecrest School in Hyattsville; and November 8, at the Fort Washington Forest Elementary School. Admission is free.

COLLEGE PARK, MARYLAND

High Point High Points

by Naomi Baron

Tuesday, October 18, marked High Point's annual Back-to-School Night. Following a brief business meeting, parents proceeded through a modified version of their child's school day.

The gymnasium has been filled to capacity several times during the past two weeks. Students gathered there on October 8 and 9 to hear a lecture concerning recent advances in our space program, presented by representatives of NASA; sophomores held a class assembly to hear campaign speeches of candidates for class officers; October 15 brought the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, presenting a program of "Music Around the World" not only to High Pointers, but also to students from feeder elementary and junior high schools.

"Do not be nervous and get a good night's sleep," were instructions recently given to junior and seniors taking the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT).

Last Friday, the girls wore the pants, for once again it was Sadie Hawkins Day. Events, including boys loading girls with books, reached their climax at the successful dance held the following evening.

Tryouts for Eugene O'Neill's "Ah Wilderness" were held last week. According to Miss Carolyn Fulgenzi, High Point speech teacher, the play will be presented in early December.

A few High Pointers were privileged to attend a Wednesday matinee of Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado." The group journeyed by bus to the National Theater in Washington, D.C., to see the D'Oyly Carte production.

Relax! The long anticipated time has arrived: school is closed October 18-20 for State Teacher's Meeting.

Cancer Prevention Study

The most extensive medical statistical survey ever undertaken in the United States, the American Cancer Society's cancer prevention study, is proceeding with its third annual follow-up currently in progress announced R. Hal Silvers, Maryland Field Representative of the society. More than one million men and women over the age of 30 have enrolled in this national project, which began in 1959 and will take six years to complete, the aim of which is to pinpoint targets for future preventative programs.

More than 20,000 persons have enrolled within the state of Maryland. How Marylanders live, their occupations, personal habits, family backgrounds, and medical histories; these and other diverse factors are being explored for dominant clues as to why some people may be more likely to get cancer than others.
